1. space complexity is O(N^2), rows * columns.
2. the number of rows and columns must always be equal to accurately represent incoming and outgoing edges of each node
3. No
4. No
5. use DFS traversal, if a visited node is already on the current path, then there's a cycle.